

Future Carrier Network Architecture using simple general-purpose servers and switches

- Maintaining reliability and scalability is brought by advanced and unified control of modularized switch and server groups as virtual resources using inexpensive equipment.
- General-purpose switches working together with network controller and packet optical transport system will result in highly reliable and flexible networks.

Multi-Service Fabric (MSF) architecture

Reference
NTT press release "NetroSphere: Towards the Transformation of Carrier Networks"
<http://www.ntt.co.jp/news2015/1502e/150219a.html>